Oh! At last after a long wait examination dates for The National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) / Joint Entrance Examination (JEE) is announced. One of the effects of corona virus is for the students who are appearing above mentioned examination is that they have got some more time for the preparation of this prestigious examination, but this type of uncertainty, I understand does not contribute quality for the final preparation though we get more time to practice and understand the areas which were not very clear. By now you must have figured out the schedule is, ample time for revision. However, a systematic approach during the last 30 days of exam preparation will help you complete everything just in time. Here are some tips for appearing in this Exam preparation. You need to divide four phases for last moment preparation.

1. How to Prioritize?
2. How to Memorize?

SMART STUDY TIPS

The first thing that you must remember at this point is that this is not the time to start anything new. Whatever has been done till now, is what you must revise for an exam. Hence, this last month has to be dedicated primarily to revision and mock tests.

- PLAN- Planning is key to good revision. When left to our own devices we sometimes struggle to find the motivation to get off Netflix and actually do some work. So draw out a timetable of allocated time slots to spend on each subject and stick to it!
- PREPARING A TIME TABLE- The next step is a schedule until the exam day. Everything that is included in this schedule will be your preparation strategy. Paste it on a wall where it is clearly visible to you. If possible, set alarms in your mobile phone according to this time table every morning.
- MARATHON REVISIONS: The first thing to be incorporated in your schedule is, ample time for revision. By now you must have figured out the amount of time required to revise a subject or topic. On the basis of this, calculate the number of hours that you

With the New Education Policy (NEP) 2020 in place, students who come out in 2030 onwards will be in a position to have their choice; to fulfill their passion and also to contribute innovatively to the society as well as to the world, according to Shri Amit Khare, Secretary, Department of Higher Education, Ministry of Education, Government of India. “The National Education Policy 2020 aims to have more job creators than job seekers,” said Shri Khare while delivering the 56th Foundation Day lecture of the Indian Institute of Mass Communication (IIMC), New Delhi on August 17, 2020. The topic of lecture was ‘National Education Policy (NEP) - Philosophy and Guiding Principles, and what it augurs for Communication Education in the Country.’

The National Education Policy 2020 is not an incremental but a transformative change in both the school and higher education level in India as it gives importance to development of skills and competencies, particularly learning of life skills. The maximum brain development of a child takes place in his/her foundational years. Therefore, the NEP has rightly given emphasis on developing the potential of every child holistically, said Shri Khare who is also Secretary, Ministry of Information and Broadcasting.

For the next 40 years, this century will have more of relearning to keep changing along with the time. The second important point in the NEP is that the focus will be on critical thinking. Instead of reading and learning about what others have done, it will encourage students to have more critical and analytical thinking. The NEP also gives due importance to research and innovation,” Shri Khare added.

Elucidating the importance of communication in the development process, Shri Khare advocated industry oriented training of the media students; developing a better “world view” in order to churn out best talents in the field of journalism and mass communication. He stressed on the need for technology driven education and devising effective online courses in the emerging areas of communication. “The IIMC has come a long way and it has become widely known, not only within the country but also abroad for its studies in the area of mass communication. Indeed, the communication world is changing and the IIMC keeps on evolving itself to provide the best to the best who come to our campuses,” Shri Khare added while suggesting that IIMC should collaborate with the leading institutions like ICSSR and JNU for research and training.

The event opened with the welcome address by DG, IIMC Prof Sanjay Dwivedi and culminated with a vote of thanks by ADG Sh K Satish Nambudripad.

Directions for the following 8 (eight) items:
Read the following seven passages. Choose the answers that follow each passage. Your answers to these questions should be based on the passages only.

Q1. What is the main idea we can infer from the passage?
(a) Unemployment in India has not been seriously taken up by policy theorists.
(b) Historical injustice is insurmountable because of the overlap between a number of wrongs, but because one or the other is of importance, discrimination, tends to acquire partial autonomy from others. This is borne out by the history of repair in India.
(c) Political theorists no doubt have a merely well-receptiveness to beauty and an activity of thought, and changing and globalizing world. Education plays a great role in India.
(d) It is difficult, if not impossible, to repair every manifestation of historical injustice.

Q2. On the basis of the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:
1. Large scale soil erosion is a major reason for widespread food insecurity in the world.
2. Soil erosion is mainly anthropogenic.
3. Sustainable management of soils helps in combating climate change.
Which of the above assumptions are/are valid?
(a) 1 only
(b) 2 only
(c) Both 1 and 2
(d) Neither 1 nor 2

Q3. Economic power can be statistically measurable in many instances, but the economic inequality is not just for food producers. Soil, in which nearly all our food grows, a giving resilience that takes years to form. Yet it can vanish in minutes. Each year 75 billion tonnes of fertile soil is lost to erosion. That is alarming - and not just for food producers. Soil can trap huge quantities of carbon dioxide in the form of organic matter and prevent it from escaping to the atmosphere.
On the basis of the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:
1. Global warming has a bearing on the planet's biodiversity.
2. Climate change will adversely affect the crop diversity.
3. Separation of land masses causes the release of huge quantities of carbon into the atmosphere.
4. The present man-made global warming will finally lead to conditions similar to those which opened 56 million years ago.
Which of the above assumptions given above are valid?
(a) 1 and 2 only
(b) 3 only
(c) 4 only
(d) 1 and 2 and 3 only

Q4. A bat's wings may look like those of a shark, but in fact, a bat has the same five fingers as an orangutan or a human, as well as a wrist connected to the same part of the body. A bat's wing is connected to the same long bones of the arm. What can be more curious than that the hand of a man, formed for grasping, that of a mole for digging, the leg of the horse, the paddle of the porpoise, and the wing of the bat be all constructed on the same pattern?
Which of the following is the most logical conclusion drawn from the above passage?
(a) Different species having similar structure of hands is an example of biological evolution.
(b) Limbs being used by different species for different kinds of work is an example of evolutionary development.
(c) Man and the afore-mentioned animals having similar structure of limbs is an example of coincidences in evolution.
(d) Man and the afore-mentioned animals have a shared evolutionary history.

Q5. Passage - 7
Around 56 million years ago, the Atlantic Ocean had not fully opened and animals, perhaps including our primate ancestors, could walk from Asia to North America through Europe and across Greenland. Earth was warmer than it is today, but as the temperature continued to rise, it gave way to Eocene, it was about to get much warmer still - rapidly and radically. The cause was a massive eruption of ash and dust that blanketed the Earth. During this period called Paleocene - Eocene Thermal Maximum or PETM, the carbon that was released into the atmosphere was roughly the amount that would be injected today if humans burned all the Earth's fossil fuels, oil, gas and natural gas. The PETM lasted for about 1,500,000 years, until the excess carbon was reabsorbed. It caused droughts, floods, insect plagues and a few extinctions. Life on Earth survived, of course - but... it was but drastically different.
Q10. On the basis of the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:
1. Global warming has a bearing on the planet's biodiversity.
2. Climate change will adversely affect the crop diversity.
3. Separation of land masses causes the release of huge quantities of carbon into the atmosphere.
4. The present man-made global warming will finally lead to conditions similar to those which opened 56 million years ago.
Which of the above assumptions given above are valid?
(a) 1 and 2 only
(b) 3 only
(c) 4 only
(d) 1 and 2 and 3 only

Passage-3
The rural hinterland of the world, including India, have contributed little to human-induced climate change, yet they are on the frontline reaping its impacts. Farmers can no longer rely on historical averages for rainfall and temperature, and the more frequent and severe climate events, such as droughts and floods, can spell disaster. And there are new threats, such as sea level rise, and the impacting glaciers on water supply. How significant are small farms? As many as two billion people worldwide depend on them for their food and livelihood. Smallholder farmers in India produce 41 percent of the country’s food grain, and other food items that contribute to local and national food security.

(a) Supporting small farmers is an important part of any agenda regarding environmental sustainability development.
(b) Poor countries have little role to play in the mitigation of global warming.
(c) Due to a large number of farm households, India will not have food security problem in the foreseeable future.
(d) Only small-held farmers in India can ensure food security.
Q25. The above passage implies that
1. There is a potential problem of food insecurity
2. India will have to strengthen its disaster management capabilities.
Which of the above assumptions is/are valid?
(a) 1 and 2
(b) 2 only
(c) Both 1 and 2
(d) Neither 1 nor 2

Passage - 4
A change of fortune, and the eventual efforts of governments (however reluctant) to deal with it, could have a big impact on investment in the industries that produce or use large amounts of fossil fuels will face higher taxes and regulatory burdens. It is really hard for producers may find it impossible to exploit their known reserves, and be left with "stranded assets" - deposits of oil and coal that have to be left in the ground. Other industries could be affected by the economic damage caused by extreme weather storms, floods, heat waves and drougths.
Q26. On the basis of the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:
1. Governments and companies need to be adequately prepared to face climate change.
2. Extreme weather events will reduce the economic growth of governments and companies in future.
3. Ignoring climate change is a huge risk for investors. Which of the above assumptions is/are valid?
(a) 1 and 2 only (b) only 3
(c) 1 and only 3 (d) 1, 2 and 3
Access to schooling for those coming of age school is close to universal, but access to quality is a different story. The problem is socio-economic status. Quotas for the weaker sections in private schools is a provision introduced by the Indian government and the Compulsory Education Act, 2009. The quotas have imposed a debate on issues of social integration and equity in education that private actors had escaped by and large. The idea of egalitarian education system with the opportunity of opportunity as its primary goal appears to be outside the space that private school principals inhabit. Therefore, the enforcement of the quotas has led to resistance, sometimes justified.
Q27. With reference to the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:
1. Making equality of opportunity is the fundamental goal of the Indian education system.
2. The education system in India is unable to provide egalitarian education.
3. Abolition of private schools and replacing them with government schools is the only way to ensure egalitarian education.
Which of the above assumptions is/are valid?
(a) 2 and 3 only (b) 3 only

It is a truth that even if TB does not kill them, hunger and poverty will. Another truth is that deep-seated stigma, lack of information and treatment is a fact. Therefore, TB can only be treated - with disastrous health consequences.
Q28. Which one of the following is the logical, rational and crucial message conveyed by the above passage?
(a) TB is not a curable disease in Indian circumstances.
(b) Curing TB requires more than medicines and medical treatment.

Department of Personnel and Training (DoPT), told during a press conference that outreach services will be provided; based on information, areas not throwing up many candidates will be reached out to; exams will be promoted and helpline will be set up for assisting candidates. He further said special provisions have been made, because in the aspirational districts, the infrastructure is very poor. Therefore to create the necessary infrastructure, connectivity as well as the examination infrastructure, viability gap funding is also being provided for in these 117 districts.

Advantages of Common Eligibility Test

The NRA will conduct Common Eligibility Test (CET) having a common curriculum to screen or shortlist candidates for the Group B and C (non-technical) posts. The NRA will conduct separate CETs each for the three levels of graduate, higher secondary (12th pass) and the matriculate (10th pass) candidates. At present, candidates seeking government jobs have to appear for separate examinations conducted by multiple recruiting agencies for various posts, for which similar eligibility conditions have been prescribed. Candidates have to pay fee to multiple recruiting agencies and also have to travel long distances for appearing in various exams. These multiple recruitment examinations are a burden on the candidates, as also on the respective recruitment agencies, involving avoidable/repetitive expenditure, law and order/security related issues and venue related problems. On an average, 2.5 crore to 3 crore candidates appear in each of these examinations. The CET would enable these candidates to appear once and apply to any or all of these recruitment agencies for the higher level of examination.

Access to Examination Centres

It has been envisioned that there would be at least one CET examination centre in every District of the country in order to provide access to candidates at a place nearer to where they reside. Initially, 117 aspirational districts have been identified to set up such examination centres. The benefits in terms of cost, effort, safety and much more would be immense. It will not only ease access to rural candidates, it will also motivate the rural candidates residing in the far-flung areas to take the examination and thereby, enhance their representation in Central Government jobs.

Major Relief to Poor/Rural/Women Candidates

Presently, the candidates have to appear in multiple examinations conducted by multiple agencies. Apart from the examination fees, candidates have to incur additional expenses for travel, boarding, lodging and other such expenses. A single examination would reduce the financial burden on candidates to a large extent. Moreover, given the financial and other constraints, the candidates from rural background have to make a choice as to which examination they want to appear in. Under the NRA, the candidates by appearing in one examination will get an opportunity to compete for many posts. NRA will conduct the first-level/Tier I Examination which is the stepping stone for many other selections. Also, Women candidates, especially from rural areas, face constraints in appearing in multiple examinations as they have to arrange for transportation and places to stay in destinations that are far away. They sometimes have to find suitable persons to accompany them to these centres. The location of test centres in every district would greatly benefit candidates from rural areas in general and women candidates in particular.

Multiple Languages

The CET would be available in a number of languages. This would greatly facilitate people from different parts of the country to take the exam and have an equal opportunity of being selected.

CET Score to be Valid for Three Years, No Bar on Attempts

The CET score of the candidate shall be valid for a period of three years from the date of declaration of the result. The best of the valid scores shall be deemed to be the current score of the candidate. There shall be no restriction on the number of attempts to be taken by a candidate to appear in the CET subject to the upper age limit. Relaxation in the upper age limit shall be given to candidates of SC/ST/OBC and other categories as per the extant policy of the Government. This would go a long way in mitigating the hardship of candidates who spend a considerable amount of time, money and effort preparing and giving these examinations every year.

Government recruitment exams have different schedules, application processes and fees; malpractices take place due to infrastructural challenges; rural, women and divyang candidates face a lot of impediments in appearing for exams. It is expected that the setting up of the multi-agency National Recruitment Agency will go a long way in eliminating these challenges, thereby ushering in a new era of good governance through transparency.

Scheduling Tests and Choosing Centres

Candidates would have the facility of registering on a common portal and give a choice of centres. Based on availability, they would be allotted centres. The ultimate aim is to reach a stage wherein candidates can schedule their own tests at centres of their choice.

Standardised Testing

NRA shall conduct a separate CET each for the three levels of graduate, higher secondary (12th pass) and the matriculate (10th pass) candidates for those non-technical posts to which recruitment is presently carried out by the Staff Selection Commission (SSC), the Railway Recruitment Boards (RRBs) and by the Institute of Banking Personnel Selection (IBPS). Based on the screening done at the CET score level, final selection for recruitment shall be made through separate specialised Tiers (II, III etc) of examination which shall be conducted by the respective recruitment agencies. The curriculum for this test would be common as would be the standard. This would greatly ease the burden of candidates who are at present required to prepare for each of the examinations separately as per different curriculum.

Scores - Access to Multiple Recruitment Agencies

Initially the scores would be used by the three major recruitment agencies, however, over a period of time it is expected that other recruitment agencies in the Central Government would adopt the same. Further, it would be open for other agencies in the public as well as private domain to adopt it if they so choose. Thus, in the long run, the CET score could be shared with other recruiting agencies in the Central Government, State Governments/Union Territories, Public Sector Undertaking and Private Sector. This would help such organizations in saving costs and time spent on recruitment.

Shortening the Recruitment Cycle

A single eligibility test would significantly reduce the recruitment cycle. Some Departments have indicated their intention to do away with any second level test and go ahead with recruitment on the basis of CET scores, physical tests and medical examination. This would greatly reduce the cycle and benefit a large section of youth.
